S. 1084	4/13/2021	Sen. Mike Lee (R)	Read twice and referred to Senate Armed Services Committee	In Senate	Suggest amendments	Medium
Bill Summary		<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Category: Reciprocity • Titled the “Military Spouse Licensing Relief Act of 2021” • Amends the Servicemembers Civil Relief Act by introducing “Section 705A. Portability of professional licenses of servicemembers and their spouses.” • Applies to servicemembers and servicemember spouses (1) with a professional license, (2) in good standing in a jurisdiction. However, if a servicemember or spouse is licensed and able to operate in multiple jurisdictions through an interstate licensure compact, that licensed individual is subject to the requirements of the compact or the applicable State legal provisions and not this section. • Requires that a jurisdiction to which a servicemembers or spouse has relocated because of military orders for military service consider the relocated servicemember’s or spouse’s professional license “valid at a similar scope of practice” for the duration of a relocation to a location outside of the licensed jurisdiction. • . • Requires that the servicemember or spouse: (1) provide a copy of such military orders to the licensing authority in the new residency jurisdiction; (2) remains in good standing with the issuing licensing authority; and (3) for the purpose of standards of practice, discipline, and fulfillment of any continuing education requirements, submit to the licensing authority in the new jurisdiction.
Comments and Proposed Changes		<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Overall, this bill avoids many of the objectionable provisions in some state reciprocity bills, such as providing for work experience as a substitute for another state’s licensure or allowing for perpetual exemptions from licensure requirements. With limited improvements, the PCC could support this bill’s passage, especially as it might stem the introduction of more poorly drafted state reciprocal licensure bills. • The term “certification” is used only once in the bill and is potentially a drafting error. The bill applies only to servicemembers and their spouses who hold “a professional license in good standing” in another jurisdiction. But the bill says that the jurisdiction to which they are relocating shall consider valid “the professional license or certification” of the individual. “Certification” is not mentioned again and should be deleted so that the bill doesn’t create confusion. • There’s no requirement of substantial equivalency of qualifications for the licenses in the two jurisdictions. This is common for military reciprocity bills because the servicemember and spouse may have to relocate on short notice. Ideally, however, this would be limited to initial reciprocal licensure only, and provide that the reciprocal license is a provisional period, after which reciprocity will be granted only if the individual can show the individual has met the qualifications for licensure required of any other resident of the state. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Because it applies only to servicemembers and their spouses relocating due to military orders only for the duration of such military orders, it is not a perpetual exemption. • It grants reciprocity only to individuals who are actively licensed and in good standing in another state, and only to the extent of the scope of practice of the out-of-state license. No alternative pathways based on work experience. • As a condition of the reciprocity grant, the individual must “submit to the authority of the licensing authority in the new jurisdiction for the purposes of standards of practice, discipline, and fulfillment of any continuing education requirements.” • If an interstate compact covers the licensee, that takes precedence over this law.

Spanberger's office is in discussions with the House Ways & Means Committee about potential amendments to the bill.
