Re: H.B. 1443

Dear Representatives Waldron and Smith,

The Professional Certification Coalition (PCC) writes to share our views regarding H.B. 1443. We appreciate that the bill aims to advance the important goal of expanding opportunities for those with criminal conviction histories. However, we respectfully request your consideration of amendments to ensure protections for the public and certification organizations that rely on licensure decisions.

The PCC is a nonpartisan, nonprofit association formed to address legislation that affects professional certification programs, those who hold private certification credentials, and the many constituencies that rely on professional certification. The PCC's organizational members include non-governmental professional certification organizations, professional societies, and service providers. The PCC's members reflect a wide spectrum of professions, including health care, engineering, financial services, and information technology, among many others. Our founding organizations – the American Society of Association Executives (the leading organization for association management) and the Institute for Credentialing Excellence (the leading developer of accreditation standards for professional certification programs) – govern the PCC.

The PCC supports H.B. 1443's goal to broaden access to licensure for ex-offenders so they may earn a living in their chosen profession. We agree that simply having a criminal record should not stigmatize or automatically disqualify an individual from an occupational license. It is critical, however, that licensing boards be able to consider the facts underlying an applicant's past conduct and make independent, individual determinations about that applicant's fitness to practice the profession with the state's endorsement.

Not all professions are the same, nor are all criminal records. Some crimes, even if non-violent and non-sexual in nature, merit a continuing disqualification from certain professions. For example, if a health care professional has abused prescription privileges to run an opioid distribution ring or has engaged in identity theft of vulnerable patients while providing home health services, a licensure board should not be blocked from disqualifying that applicant for the protection of the public, nor should an employer be blocked from taking that into consideration.

To address these concerns, the PCC proposes the following amendments to H.B. 1443:

- Amend Section 112.011(2)(a) to read “Notwithstanding any other provision of law, a person may be denied a license, permit, or certification to pursue, practice, or engage in an occupation, trade, vocation, profession, or business by reason of the prior conviction for a crime only if all any of the following apply:”
- Amend Section 112.0112(a)(2) to read: “The conviction directly and specifically relates to the duties and responsibilities of the occupation, trade, vocation, profession, or business for which the license, permit, or certification is sought. A criminal conviction ‘directly and specifically relates to the duties and responsibilities’ of an occupation or profession if the circumstances of the offense and the nature of the occupation would create an unreasonable risk to public safety, health, or welfare for an individual to practice the licensed profession.”

- Amend Section 112.0112 (2)(a)(3) to read: “Granting the license, permit, or certification would pose an unreasonable direct and substantial risk to public safety, health, and welfare because ~~there is clear and convincing evidence that~~ the person has not been rehabilitated to safely perform the duties and responsibilities of the specific occupation, trade, vocation, profession, or business for which the license, permit, or certificate is sought.”
- Add a consideration to the list in Section 112.0112 (2)(c): “Whether the circumstances of the offense and the nature of the occupation would create an unreasonable risk to public safety, health, or welfare for an individual to practice the licensed profession.”
- Add a safe harbor provision: “Nothing in this section shall be construed to require a private certification organization to grant or deny private certification to any individual, nor alter or impair any requirement in a licensure statute or regulation for an individual to hold current private certification as a condition of licensure or renewal of licensure.”

The public expects licensing authorities to serve as gatekeepers, as do private certification organizations. Private certification organizations in regulated professions rely on licensing boards to exercise their authority to deny licenses to individuals who have engaged in conduct that casts serious doubt on their fitness to practice the profession or indicates that the individual poses an unacceptable risk to the people to whom the applicant would interact in the conduct of the profession.

Most private certification organizations also rely on agency determinations in their own eligibility and ethics code enforcement, as they are non-governmental entities without the resources or legal authority to conduct full-fledged investigations, issue subpoenas, and hold trial-type proceedings. Withholding criminal conviction history from licensing boards therefore also has downstream effects on the information available to private certification organizations.

Thank you for your consideration of these amendments. If you have any questions regarding this letter, please feel free to reach out to us using the contact information identified below.

Sincerely,

Craig Saperstein
