Re: HB 1962

Dear Rep. Riley:

The Professional Certification Coalition (PCC)<sup>1</sup> writes regarding HB 1962. The PCC respectfully requests an amendment to ensure out-of-state applicants for licensing are not held to materially lower standards than Missouri expects of its own residents.

The PCC supports reducing unnecessary barriers for licensed professionals who move to a new state. However, as noted in the attached Statement of Principles, not all state-specific requirements are unwarranted: substantive state-specific licensing requirements protect the public from unqualified or unethical practitioners and uphold the integrity of licensed professions as a whole. In adopting specific qualification requirements for licensing occupations, Missouri has balanced protection of the public with the interests of lowering costs, promoting market competition, and reducing barriers to entry to an occupation. That balance is best identified through review of the specific requirements for earning a license in each profession, and any changes to requirements should apply to all who practice the profession in Missouri, not just those seeking to relocate from a different state.

For certain occupations, Missouri requires applicants to earn a private professional certification to demonstrate that they have achieved the core knowledge, skills, and competencies for that occupation. As currently drafted, HB 1962 would permit unqualified individuals to apply for a license and hold themselves out as qualified, despite not having demonstrated the skills and knowledge required to earn the requisite private certification. This puts Missouri residents at risk. A history of employment alone does not prove the competency and skill levels expected of licensed professionals in Missouri, and not all private certifications are comparable to each other or equivalent to those that Missouri residents are required to hold as a condition of licensure. We therefore urge that HB 1962 be amended to require that applicants hold the private certification that Missouri licensing laws otherwise require for that occupation.

<sup>1</sup> The PCC is a nonprofit, nonpartisan association formed to address legislation that affects professional certification programs, those who hold private certification credentials, and the many constituencies that rely on professional certification. The PCC's organizational members include non-governmental professional certification organizations, professional societies, and service providers. Our members reflect a wide spectrum of professions, including health care, engineering, financial services, and information technology, among many others. Our founding organizations – the American Society of Association Executives (the leading organization for association management) and the Institute for Credentialing Excellence (the leading developer of accreditation standards for professional certification programs) – govern the PCC.

Specifically, the PCC urges the following amendment:

“Notwithstanding any other provision in this section, if the occupational licensing rules of the board require applicants to hold a current and valid private certification, the board must require the applicant who seeks a license under the provisions of this section to hold that private certification before issuing a license under this section. Where a licensing law specifies a private certification or other substantive qualifications as alternative eligibility standards for a license, an applicant who seeks a license under the provisions of this section must either hold that current and valid private certification or demonstrate qualifications at least equivalent to the alternative eligibility standards required in this state for practice of that lawful occupation.”

This bill directly affects protections for the public and PCC member organizations that confer credentials to professionals in occupations in which certification is a condition of licensure. If, due to variations in licensing laws, HB 1962 allows unqualified or unfit individuals to practice, the public’s trust in certified professionals and their regulated professions will be irreparably damaged, especially for occupations in which the public associates an individual’s status as a certified professional with licensing.

Thank you for your attention to these issues and consideration of the PCC’s views. Please feel free to contact us using the information below to discuss this further.

Sincerely,

Craig Saperstein
